1 Electric Marble is Sicis's reinterpretation of the sought-after Calacatta stone. A polymer film infused with metallics is pressed between two layers of clear glass, resulting in an explosion of neon. Sold as a slab or cut to size. From $200 per sq. ft. sicis.com

2 Crafted for beauty and performance, Bertazzoni's Professional Series 48″ dual-fuel range has a 19,000-BTU burner and dual horizontal convection. Available in six finishes. $8,750. bertazzoni.com

3 Once again, Dolce & Gabbana has partnered with Smeg to surround a fridge with an artful story. This year, artist Michelangelo Lacagnina depicted traditional Sicilian dances, including the tarantella. $50,000. smeg.com

4 Designer Greg Natale plays with the irregular forms of nature, creating a wild and uneven pattern of glass mosaics appropriately named New Malachite. Available in Green, Rose, and Grey. $104 per sq. ft. bisazza.it

5 For its 20th anniversary, Exquisite Surfaces tapped 20 designers to create patterns for its Moroccan cement tiles. Shown are designs by David Netto (top) and Suzanne Tick. From $28 per sq. ft. xsurfaces.com
